

Big Question: What is the significance of Guru Nanak to the Sikh Community?

Cut out the pictures and sentences. Match the sentences with the pictures and put them in the correct order to tell the story of Guru Nanak. There is more than one sentence for each picture.

After many journeys outside India, Guru Nanak settled in Kartarpur on the banks of the River Ravi.	Everyone feared he had died while bathing in the river.
He lived in a village with his father.	Nanak's first job was as a shopkeeper at Sultanpur.
Guru Nanak travelled to different parts of India to teach about God's message.	They realised it was Guru Nanak's way of ensuring they would not argue.
When Nanak was 28 years old, he disappeared for three days.	Hindus and Muslims he had known argued about his funeral. They looked under the sheet and found flowers instead of the body.
He was curious about God at a young age.	He had angered his father by buying food for a group of monks instead of buying and reselling something for a profit.
When he died, Guru Nanak's body was covered with a sheet.	Nanak reappeared saying he had been with God.
Nanak went to live with his sister.	Nanak was born a Hindu.
Nanak said he would be following God's path from now on.	People who listened to him were known as 'Sikhs' (learners).

Guru Nanak's message is not easy to sum up. But he stood for equality, community, generosity and the continuous remembering of God.

As young people in our world today, what do you want for our future? What are your hopes?
